Basketball Team Defeats Towson In League Opener

Glee Club To Sing Christmas Carols

Leonard J. Johnson, president of the Glee Club, has announced plans for a January drive to enlist students with musical talent in a school orchestra.

The Christmas schedule of the Loyola Glee Club will include two off-campus performances as well as the annual Christmas recital for the student body. These additional performances will be given at O'Neill's department store and at Notre Dame College.

The traditional Christmas program for Loyola students, their parents and friends will be presented in the Gymnasium at Evergreen on Sunday, December 14, at 4:00 p.m. Selections will include various French and Spanish carols and several traditional carols which will be sung by a group of four boy sopranos from Mercy Villa.

The club will perform at O'Neill's at 7 p.m. on December 8, and at Notre Dame on December 12. The program at Notre Dame College will be followed by a dance.

by Don Fay

Jim Lacy failed to muster a field goal for the first time in his collegiate basketball career, the entire Loyola team scored only two shots from the floor in the second half and 68 personal fouls were called in a dull and sluggish game in which the Hounds downed Towson State Teachers' College, 47-37, last Tuesday night at Evergreen.

The contest marked the inauguration of Mason-Dixon Conference cage competition for Loyola this season. The Hounds, defending champions of the circuit, suffered a very poor shooting game after racing to an overwhelming lead in the first period.

Hold 16-2 Lead

Three fouls by Lacy and one by Andy O'Donnell and a set shot by Wish Galvin pushed the home team ahead by six points in the first period before Towson could score. After allowing a field goal, the Greyhounds strung together ten straight points to hold a commanding 16-2 lead, with Tom Gisriel and O'Donnell doing most of the scoring.

However, the scrappy Towsonites, led by George Kimmet, Howard Ritter and Frank Glebas, went to work and gradually tore down this advantage as the Hounds used their

Prayers, Masses Offered For Student Relief

Catholic Students of Loyola College will offer up their Masses, prayers and good works of the next few months as a part of a nationwide Spiritual Bouquet for World Student Relief.

Sponsored by the Baltimore Sodality Union, the bouquet will be distributed in Theology classes between Dec. 1 and April 1. The bouquet will be handed in each week to instructors in religion.

Suggested By Bailey

The resolution to make such a spiritual crusade was adopted by the Union at the suggestion of James Bailey.

The bouquet will consist of the following items: Masses, Ejaculations, Rosaries, Sacrifices, Good Works, Communion, Prayers and the Five First Saturdays. The students at Loyola are also asked to offer up their First Friday Mass and Communion, prayers before class and other prayers offered at the College.

Pray For Russians

It is the purpose of the Sodality to foster devotion to Our Lady of Fatima by asking the students to make the Five First Saturdays for the Conversion of Russia.

It is being considered to have Mass at Evergreen for the students every Saturday.

Dell Parking Lot Nearing Completion

Loyola's new parking lot, located in the West end of the Dell, will be completed by this January. It will accommodate approximately fifty cars, and the price of its construction has been set at $1700.

The same company which constructed the Building in the Dell is paving the lot. To make the surfacing solid, the lot will be allowed to settle over the holidays, and then will be opened for service. The lot was planned to relieve the parking situation that faces all students who drive to school.

English Jesuit Gives Address

Loyola's twentieth President, the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., was officially inaugurated on Wednesday afternoon at ceremonies held in the Evergreen Gymnasium. The Very Rev. Martin C. D'Arcy, S.J., Provincial of the English Province of the Society of Jesus, delivered the principal address.

Honorary degrees were awarded to the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. McDonnell, titular Bishop of Sela and auxiliary to Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York; Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., Maryland State Superintendent of Education; and Evelyn Waugh, British novelist. Mr. Waugh's degree was conferred in absentia.

Universities Represented

Almost two hundred colleges, universities and learned societies from all parts of the United States and England were represented and participated in the academic procession preceding the installation.

The oldest university participating was seven-century-old Cambridge University of England, represented by the Rev. Dr. Harold C. Gardiner, S.J. All higher educational institutions in the State were represented as was the majority of colleges and universities in the East, including Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Brown, Fordham, Georgetown and Temple.

Bishop Delivers Invocation

The Most Rev. John M. McNamara, administrator of the archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington, delivered the opening invocation. The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S.J., Dean of Loyola, presided and inducted the new president. The Rev. William V. Herlihy, S.J., was chief marshal; William J. O'Donnell, president of the Loyola Alumni Association led the alumni in the procession.

Father D'Arcy, who received

Inauguration Makes Television History

Loyola College made television history Wednesday when the Inauguration of the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., was broadcast over WMAR-TV, the Sunpapers station in Baltimore. The program included scenes of the academic procession and the Inauguration ceremonies and addresses.

It is believed that the program is the first of its type in the history of television. James K. McManus, an alumnus of Loyola College, and a staff announcer of WMAR, explained the ceremonies.

Congratulations Archbishop Keough

In the name of the Faculty and Student Body of Loyola College, THE GREYHOUND wishes to extend its warmest congratulations to Archbishop-elect Francis P. Keough.

Sales Tax On Textbooks?

A special session of the Maryland Legislature has come and gone, a surplus of nearly seven million dollars in sales tax revenue has been announced by the comptroller, and there yet remains a tax on textbooks sold in high school and college bookstores through the state.

This article is the first move in a campaign, initiated and to be sponsored by THE GREYHOUND, to have the tax on textbooks sold within educational institutions removed. Basis for the campaign is fourfold: 1) the surplus in expected revenue makes some exemptions advisable, and exemptions for school bookstores would produce a negligible decline in revenue, while it would naturally assist and psychologically encourage the student in his education; 2) while veterans' books are at present subsidized by the government, the percentage of veterans in colleges will shortly decrease, the time will soon come when all college students will be directly affected by the sales tax; 3) the tone of state and federal legislation since the war has always been one of emphasis on help to educational institutions and the students attending them; 4) there is a certain amount of injustice, at least at the high school level, when public high school students receive books free of charge, while private institutions not only pay for them, but are required to pay a state tax as well.

A question on the next GREYHOUND poll will test student opinion on this matter. If it is favorable, approval of the campaign will be sought from the Student Council and steps will be taken by THE GREYHOUND to have the law amended at the next session of the Legislature.

We would appreciate the views of other state colleges and high schools in this matter.

In an election held two weeks ago, the July Senior class elected Jim Norris, Jr., as president of the class. Norris succeeds John Enoch, who has held the office for the past three years.

Edward Bangs was chosen as vice-president of the class. In one of the two tie votes of the meeting, Bangs and Charles Barrett were deadlocked after the first vote. Bangs was elected after a run-off vote between the two.

Another tie vote was recorded for the office of treasurer, when John Hohman and Jerry Mack received the same number of votes on the first ballot. Hohman, who has held offices continually in the class ever since his freshman year, was selected in the run-off.

Tom Padden received a clear majority in the final vote, which determined the position of secretary. Only one vote was needed as Padden easily outdistanced his opposition.

By virtue of his victory, Norris will succeed Enoch on the Student Council as the official representative of the July Senior class.

News In Brief

Loyola's Library has recently acquired 353 volumes of Jacques Paul Migne's Patrologiae in both the Latin and Greek series. The books contain a history of the early church fathers. They were started by Abbe Migne in 1844 and completed by his successors in 1880. The works are an outstanding addition to the classical collection of the Library.

Paul James Plunkett, who graduated from Loyola in October, 1943, will be married to Miss Anne Priscilla Knighton at the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, Washington, D. C., on December 27. Miss Knighton is a former student of Notre Dame of Maryland College.

The Maryland Region of the National Federation of Catholic College Students will hold a dance in the Loyola Gymnasium on January 20.

John L. Phillips, a member of the May Senior Class, and Miss Jo Ann Perrot announced their engagement on Thanksgiving Day. Phillips is photographic editor of THE GREYHOUND.

Lecture Series Continues Tonight

Continuing its series of Fall Lectures, Loyola College will present six additional talks in the Library Reading Room at 8:00 p. m. on week-day evenings. The "Books of the New Testament" will be the topic of the address by the Rev. Russell Wilson, S. J., on December 9. On December 16, Father Wilson will discuss "Modern Editions of Scripture."

Rev. Stephen McNamee, S. J., will complete his talks on Medical Ethics when he discusses "Moral Obligations in the Light of the Catholic Church" on December 11, and "The Doctor in His Practice" on December 18.

"Programs of the C. I. O." will be the subject of a talk by Mr. Ernest J. Moran on December 5 and on December 12, Mr. Martin J. O'Connell will speak on the Attitude of Government.

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

Aims Of New Alumni Administration

The new President of the Association, William J. O'Donnell, '37, has issued the following statement to the members outlining the goal set for his term of office:

"The primary aim of this administration is to attempt to increase the interest of the Alumnus in his Alumni association. Many Alumni fail to realize that Loyola, more than ever before, has taken a foremost position of influence in our community and in our State—to use the words of Father Talbot, is now "Maryland's Loyola." By active membership in the Association the Alumnus can preserve his ties with his Alma Mater and his Alma Mater can continue to serve him. There can be no closer bond among Loyola men, for Loyola, than active membership in the Alumni Association.

"A full time secretary has been employed so that the Association may better serve its members; as soon as our files are completed and current we will complete the Alumni Questionnaire. We have planned the usual social affairs and know that they will be well supported—but still, for a real Alumni Association, we need the interest and active participation of every member."

Student Council Approves Loan For Rifle Club

by James H. Dietz

The Student Council, at a recent meeting, approved a $60 loan to the newly organized Rifle Club. The Council also endorsed the pending construction of handrails on the Dell steps, an Athletic Department insurance plan for athletes, the awarding of intramural sports medals at general assemblies, and a special cheer rally on December 5.

The Rifle Club loan had been fully investigated by a special committee, which urged the loan but advised that it be granted with a specified rate of interest. The loan, however, was voted upon and passed without interest.

Handrails Approved

The Reverend Robert P. Arthur, S.J., Loyola's Dean of Men, reported that he had consulted several engineering companies about the construction of handrails on the Dell steps. The Council expressed the hope that the handrails will have been completed before icy weather sets in.

The insurance plan for athletes, proposed at a previous meeting by Ray Wittleberger, president of the sophomore class, provides that the Athletic Department will defray the costs of the policies. Although this insurance is voluntary for students, the Council hopes that all athletes will take advantage of it.

Intramural Medals

The Council unanimously approved the awarding of intramural sports medals at general assemblies, believing that this will stimulate interest in intramural athletics. The Council likewise endorsed a special cheer rally for the entire student body on December 5, in preparation for the U. of Baltimore game on December 6.

Consideration of a suggestion that a program of inter club athletic activity be inaugurated was deferred until the next Council meeting, as was a proposal that a public-address system be installed in the cafeteria.

Senior Retreat Begins Tonight At Manresa

Loyola's January Graduating Class will have its Senior Retreat at Manresa-on-the-Severn this weekend. All Catholics in the class are obliged to make the Retreat and non-Catholic members are invited to attend.

The Retreat will begin at 6 p.m. this evening and will close on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The Retreat Master will be the Rev. John Brady, S.J.

Because of the size of the Class, the Seniors will make the Retreat at the same time as the members of the Alumni Association.

Members of the May and July graduating classes will make their final retreat at a date to be announced.

NFCCS Launches Student Relief Drive For Europe

by Thomas L. Padden

A drive to raise $10,000 for the needy students of Europe was launched at Loyola College under the sponsorship of the National Federation of Catholic College Students. The purpose of the drive is to combat the spread of Communism in the colleges and universities of Europe.

James Bailey, Loyola's senior representative to the NFCCS, plans to raise Loyola's share by holding a drawing on a Television set which will end sometime in January.

Meet The Faculty

Mr. Harry W. Kirwin came to Loyola College after teaching at Regis High School and Fordham High School of Business. Mr. Kirwin was also the head of a boys summer camp in Livingston, New York.

A graduate of Holy Cross in 1934, where he received his Bachelor of Arts, Doctor of Law and Master of Arts degrees, Mr. Kirwin also has been admitted to the bar in the State of New York. Fordham University will award him a Doctorate in Philosophy in the near future.

A member of The Burke Society of New York, the American Historical Society and the Catholic Historical Society, he also holds the post of Assistant Professor of History here at Loyola.

While a member of the Regis High School faculty, Mr. Kirwin was moderator of the school's Senior Debating Society, which was one of the outstanding speaking groups in the New York area.

He was also instrumental in inaugurating a public speaking group which conducted frequent discussions on important national and international problems.

Bailey said that he realized that this was a rather large quota for a relatively small college, but if the students really get behind the drive and sell ten books apiece we will have little trouble in meeting our established requirement. When asked if this wasn't a heavy assignment, Bailey answered in the affirmative, but went on to say "So is the extermination of Communism."

"Father McGuire, Head of the China Relief, who has recently returned from abroad, emphasized it in these words at a meeting of the Washington Region of the NFCCS," said Bailey: "The students in foreign universities and colleges will not be able to finish their education unless they receive outside help . . . These same students are the future leaders of those conquered countries, and while they are not prone to Communism, a hungry man is an easy prey to the vicious propaganda emanating from Moscow."

Father McGuire went on to say, "If the situation becomes any more severe it will result in the destruction of many centuries of Christian culture."

Loyola Students Favor Truman As President

If the presidential election were decided by Loyola students, President Harry Truman would continue in office for a four-year term of his own. Results of the straw vote included in a recent GREYHOUND Poll showed that 32% favored keeping the piano in the White House busy for another term, while Stassen and Dewey were favored by 18% apiece. General Eisenhower, Taft, Warren and Hull were among the eleven candidates named.

Students To Work

Christmas Holidays will be holidays in name only for some 84% of Evergreen students, another question on the same poll revealed. Fifty-one percent of the Loyola men voting will work in the Post Office. The majority will clerk, while truck driving for the parcel post division was named as second position choice and carrying mail as the least popular.

The query concerning Student Council activities showed almost unanimous opinion among the students that the Council has improved over recent years, with 95 out of a hundred students expressing their approval of this year's Student Council.

Notre Dame Popular College

A total of 36 different colleges and universities were nominated in the sixth question on the poll, which asked students to name the institution they would attend if given their choice. Notre Dame (Indiana) was the most popular, followed by Harvard. Loyola College was in third place. Georgetown and MIT were among the leaders, while the runners-up included almost every well-known university from the University of Paris and the University of Zurich to Drexel and the University of Idaho.

Suggestions for improvement of the cafeteria have been taken up with Mr. William Gorsuch, manager of the cafeteria for the Slater System. Results will be published in the next issue of THE GREYHOUND.

The Critilog

by George Herman

George Jean Aristotle of the Athenian Bugle once noted the lack of originality in plays wherein the authors resort to supernatural aid to get their hero out of a tight corner.

"This," said Mr. Aristotle, "is a lousy trick to pull on someone who has paid 45 cents to see a good show." I quite agree.

Heaven Only Knows is a sample of what I mean. Hollywood has turned out several shows with stories wherein some poor deity is shaken from his easy chair and forced to lend a helping hand. Why? It seems that due to bad bookkeeping in the celestial land, someone doesn't have a soul.

Such pictures, besides becoming trite, are fostering wrong impressions of Heaven. If we were to judge the Great Land by what we see in the movies, we would undoubtedly arrive at the conclusions that:

(A) The business staff is very inefficient. Forgetting souls, bodies or other such things does not denote capability.

(B) Heaven is arrived at by airplane. This denotes a lack of progress. Being supernatural, you would think that they'd be way ahead of us in regards to transportation, but no—they have to resort to the PCA.

(C) If you ever want an angel, just whistle, and you'll have all the supernatural assistance you can use.

Helpful guys, these angels.

Editorials

Our New Rector

When the president of an educational institution officially assumes his office, few school newspapers neglect to notice the event editorially, too often merely because it is the accepted thing to do. This piece is a departure from that tradition. We mean it.

We are confident that in sincerely congratulating Fr. Talbot on this great occasion we are doing more than expressing a personal sentiment; confidence, respect and liking for the Rector, developed over a period of less than six months, have become universal at Loyola. His sincere interest and support of student affairs (not merely avowed, but demonstrated constantly), his personal action in making the Student Council a true and powerful representative of student opinion, have already assured as that this Loyola tradition means more than ever: The President's door is always open.

Good For Us

Frequently in the last few months we have caught ourselves sitting back and throwing up our hands in amazement at the amount of class and club activity going on these days at Loyola.

A check of the Student Council Secretary's Social Calendar shows that classes and activities have requested dance dates as far ahead as next May. It is not uncommon for eight or ten activity meetings to be crammed into the Friday free periods.

New clubs are springing up faster than we can assign reporters to cover them, and defunct clubs with token officers are all but non-existent. Not too long ago the Student Council was able to dispose of its business in one-half hour meeting per week. Currently, Council meetings are forced to run as much as twice as long, and still not finish coordinating activity.

There used to be a time when this publication had to sweat and strain to fill up its forty columns; now we are often forced—and it is not pleasant—to underplay news and sometimes even to squib in News In Brief an article which in times past would have rated half a column.

We hesitate to say that the golden age of activity has arrived, because there is no reason to believe that the apex has been reached.

Now, we're not trying to look at life through rose-tinted spectacles. It was a bit surprising to learn that only 600 students had picked up their basketball season books. There are certainly still extant a fair-sized minority of students who make a beeline for the A bus immediately after their last class. We do believe, however, that the percentage of such has fallen.

Consequently, the day when the whole of student activities are run by a small cliquish group seems to have passed. In consequence those activities, and the spirit of the school in general, has become more vigorous.

And in consequence of this, never before has the name of Loyola been more in the public eye. It becomes more and more a rarity to pick up an evening newspaper and find in it no mention of the college.

What is the point of all this comment? Nothing. We just want it understood that we're glad we're here.

Condolences

On behalf of the Faculty and Student Body of Loyola College, THE GREYHOUND extends its deepest condolences to Anthony L. Horka on the death of his father, Dr. Leon S. Horka, to Thomas Lind on the death of his father, and to John and William Schanberger on the death of their grandfather, Mr. Frederick Schanberger.

For Friday, December 5, 1947

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Windy) Rush right down to your lawyer's and make out your will. All people born this time have fixation of the eyeball. You will have an expensive funeral, smelly flowers and many friends to usher you into the great beyond. Check with the florist to avoid dying on a holiday.

APRIL 21 to MAY 20 (Little Milder) Don't worry about paying those bills. You may find it difficult to achieve all you're working for, but be wise—quit trying. Be tactless with your friends, they hate you anyhow.

MAY 21 to JUNE 21 (Warmer) Heart interests definitely not favored today. In fact anyone so repulsive as you ought to forget about the other sex. If women snub you, be nonchalant, knock them on their faces.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Plenty Hot) Good day to try those secret schemes. A little arsenic in the right places will rid you of many tiresome acquaintances. Don't tell your wife. She doesn't appreciate the genius blooming in your august soul.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 22 (Letting Up) People born during this time are doomed to failure in all fields of life. Their checks bounce, their hair falls out, their bed springs creak and their running water walks. Don't be gloomy, though. Christmas is coming.

AUGUST 23 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Not Bad) This is the day to show the world what a punk you really are. Your hollow head, drooping ears, stupidity and low I. Q. all tend to make it better had you not bothered to roll your pampered cadaver out of bed today.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Feel That Breeze) Do not quibble over petty differences. If you don't get what you want—take it. You're a better man than your wife. Don't let anybody kid you on that point.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 22 (Button your coat) Christmas Holidays coming up. Buy yourself some brew and find yourself a corner all alone, take off the cork and wet your lips. When nobody's looking, pour the dirty stuff on the floor. It'll make better polish than beverage.

Dirty Eddie—Ludwig Bemelmans

Dirty Eddie is by way of being a two hundred and forty page variation of the theme of Death in Hollywood, an article that Evelyn Waugh handled much more effectively in two thousand words. It's Austro-American author, Ludwig Bemelmans, took to writing it with the aid of the same stimulus that affected Mr. Waugh. That stimulus was his failure to cope with the lords of the motion picture studios.

Less subtly than Mr. Waugh, Bemelmans tells of a writer, Ludwig Mumm, who goes to Hollywood to work for one of the studios. There he meets Nanya Vashvily, the fat, bleary-eyed director; Cassard, his collaborator—a weird character who staggers and runs to the four walls—who explains to Mumm their duties, which consist mainly in outrageous simple scenes in the stories they adopt; spending money and leading an altogether leisurely existence.

When Dirty Eddie appears on the scene, their leisurely life is interrupted. Dirty Eddie is a pig—a skinny, black pig! He succeeds in creating chaos in the studio, causing dismissals and appointments, but eventually bringing about the novel happy ending.

Dirty Eddie is neither high comedy nor bitter satire. It is (though amusing) impossible as a Hollywood production. It has a documentary value that would give permanent interest and would be an important find, for Mr. Waugh's archaeologists, among the major relics in the dunes that will drift on Sunset Boulevard.

Running With The Hounds

by Spence Davidson

This week's meeting of The Thursday Night Skittles and Second-Guessing Society will please come to order. Our secretary, Miss Prem, will render a translation of the minutes, done in her usual inimitable and illegible style, after which we will proceed to new business. Under that heading this week are listed several items: what to do with the seven cents in dues which Miss Prem has succeeded in collecting, what to do with Miss Prem, but most important of all, what the prospects are for some of the opponents which the Greyhound basketball team will face this year. Under this category are two subheads: La Salle and American University. We will discuss them in that order.

The La Salle Explorers, who play the role of host to our Hounds tonight in Philadelphia, are—as they say in the provinces—loaded. Last year's squad, which defeated Loyola twice, is back in uniform this season, with only one or two men missing. And when you consider the fact that these lads hung up a 19-5 record against some of the strongest opposition in the East, things don't look to cheerful.

As far as height goes, the Philadelphians have quite an advantage over us. The team averages six feet, two inches, and includes men who stand five and six inches over the six foot mark. Looking down on them all is Larry Foust, who stretches up to six feet, nine inches with his socks off.

The standout performer for the Explorers is undoubtedly Ace McCann, who can play on our intramural team anytime he wants to. Ace is five feet, eight inches, but he knows his way around the floor. So do Greenberg, Gallagher, Steigerwalt and Bernhardt, who assist McCann with his act.

Come what may, it shapes up to be quite a ballgame. The Greyhounds will definitely put up a better showing than they did last season. The Philadelphia game with La Salle was the third contest in three successive days for the Hounds; this year they're rested and ready. And Loyola also has most of its men back.

American University is the team which has the M-D Conference buzzing this year. A majority of last year's squad, excepting, of course, everybody's friend Bart Fugler, departed A. U.'s hallowed halls last Spring for sundry reasons, but Staff Cassell has weathered the loss and come up with a superb handful of talent. Not green talent, either, but fellows with plenty of basketball know-how.

Among them are Pete Negley, Don Hillock and Reggie Crockett, all of whom managed to have themselves selected All-Southern Conference last year—Negley being a transfer from North Carolina, and the other two having decided that it was a far, far better thing to attend A. U. than Washington and Lee. Fred Fling is back from last year's squad and half of the town of Bradford, Pennsylvania, seems to be fighting for places on the team, to judge from the Eagles' press releases.

Cassell's problem is to form these men, most of whom have been playing under different systems, into once team familiar with his own. Apparently he's done it; last week the Eagles lost to CCNY, one of the teams which shows up in Madison Square Garden everytime somebody defrosts the ice hockey rink and puts a hardwood floor over it, '66-57, a margin of only nine points. Circle January 5 on your calendar and get a babysitter for the kiddies that evening, because A. U. shows up at Evergreen then for what should be the best contest in the entire Conference schedule.

Winter Meets Scheduled For Indoor Track Team

Three members of the Greyhound cross-country team are scheduled to perform in the South Atlantic A. A. U. run this Sunday. George Brown, John Paszek and Larry Atkinson will race in the six mile event in Patterson Park.

Loyola will also sponsor an indoor track team this Winter, coached by Mr. William McElroy, track and cross-country mentor

The tentative roster of the team consists of Atkinson, Paszek, Charlie Kimmel, Walt Symth, Ray Lelli and Lou Roche. Any other members of the student body who would be interested in joining the team are invited to try out.

The first meet for the team will take place on January 3, when they will appear in an indoor meet at the National Guard Armory in Washington. The event is under the auspices of the Washington Evening Star and is sanctioned by the District of Columbia A. A. U. Two other meets, one in Baltimore and one in New York, are tentative.

second stringers. Outscoring Loyola by 22 to 15 in the second period, the visitors moved to within six points of the lead at halftime, 34-28.

Only 9 Points Scored

Lefty Reitz switched his starting combination for the second half, inserting Jim Bailey and Mike Zedalis. But Loyola was unable to pull away, as only nine points were scored by both teams in this third period, and thirteen in the fourth period.

Galvin's inside one-hander and a set shot by Vince Gallagher with a minute to go were the lone field goals registered by Loyola in the second half.

Gisriel and O'Donnell with seven points each, were high scorers for the winners. Ritter, with 10, was the game's leading point-producer. Lacy Gets 5 Points

Lacy scored five points on foul shots, but failed to connect from the floor. The tall forward, who was the second highest collegiate scorer throughout the nation last year, served mainly in a feeder role. His six set shots from the outside spun off the rim and dropped away.

In general, the game was loosely played and ruined by the constant fouls called by the officials. Each team lost two men via the personal foul route, Towson giving up Kimmet and Stroh and Loyola losing Gisriel and Johnson.

Hounds Battle LaSalle, Bees Over Weekend

The Greyhound basketball team takes to the road tonight for the first time this season to play La Salle College. The game, first half of a home-and-home series between the two schools, is listed for the Explorers' home court in Philadelphia.

La Salle, which defeated the Hounds by scores of 71-46 and 59-49 last year, will field a team heavily manned by veterans from last season's outfit, which proved to be one of the top teams in the East.

McCann Back

Leading the Explorer attack will be Ace McCann, diminutive forward who won a place on Loyola's all-opponent team last year. Aiding him will be veterans such as Bill Gallagher, Charley Tomkins, Joe Greenberg and Larry Foust, tall center for La Salle who measures six feet nine inches.

Foust is the tallest man on the Philadelphia squad but the Explorers boast height in other departments. They have another center who stands at 6' 6", and three men who hit the 6' 5" mark. The average of the team is 6' 2", two inches over that of the Hound courtmen.

Lacy Leads Attack

Leading the attack against the La Salle quintet will be Big Jim Lacy, siege gun of the Greyhounds' offensive. Jim had little trouble piercing the Explorers' defense last year, despite Loyola's double loss.

In the first game, playing on La Salle's court before a capacity crowd, Jim tallied fifteen points. Playing on his home floor he ran wild to collect twenty-six markers and high scoring honors for the evening.

Tomorrow night the team returns home to engage the University of Baltimore's Bees at Evergreen. Although the Bees are enjoying a revamped athletic program, Loyola will be favored to down the visitors.

Yankees Are Still The Team To Beat, Says DiMaggio In Hospital Interview

by Thomas J. D'Alesandro, III

When Joe DiMaggio stepped to bat in the second game of the 1937 World Series between the New York Yankees and the New York Giants, he was on the threshold of achieving the fondest ambition of his boyhood—to hit a home run in a World Series game. Whipping into the first pitch, Joe blasted the ball over the center field wall and trotted around the bases with the joyful realization that he had fulfilled a dream he once thought could never come true.

DiMaggio, recovering from an operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital here in Baltimore, shifted the pillow behind his head and looked back over his ten year record-breaking career with the New York Yankees.

Greatest Thrill

According to Joe, one of the greatest thrills of his baseball career came in a tight game with the Washington Senators in 1937. He had a perfect day at the plate, connecting safely all five times at bat, twice for homers, twice for singles and once for a triple. He personally accounted for seven runs and slapped a homer with the bases loaded. Incidentally, the Yankees won, 9-6.

Joe bemoaned the habit of many of the league's outfielders who constantly rob him of home runs. Commenting on the miraculous save by Gionfriddo in the last World Series, Joe said, "I thought it was a sure home run. I got a short-lived thrill until I saw he had caught it. I felt a little bad and would have felt worse had we lost the Series, but since we won the Series, I've forgotten all about it."

Streak Was Strain

Perhaps the severest strain in Joe's career came when he was establishing the new record by hitting safely in fifty-six consecutive games. Everyday, fans from all parts of the nation would send him

Virginia Edges Hound Booters By 2-1 Margin

The Greyhound soccer team, minus the services of several of its best players, lost the final game of the season to the University of Virginia, 2-1. The game was played at Charlottesville on November 27.

Hank and Bill Linz, Tommy Lind and Ellsworth Andrews were unable to accompany the team to Virginia, and this fact plus the ousting of several Greyhound players during the game found the Loyola outfit playing with a skeleton force at the close of the game.

Virginia scored first, creasing the net at 2.20 of the first period, but the Hounds came back strongly and kept the ball for the rest of the quarter. Towards the end of the period Jerry Dotterweich knotted the score, with the help of Nick Kropfelder and Harry Bullington.

Virginia scored the winning goal midway of the second quarter. Play was rough on both sides during the remainder of the game and both Bullington and Dotterweich were tossed out of the game by the referee. Dick Hicks played outstanding offensive and defensive ball for Loyola.

N. C. Game Tickets Go On Sale Monday

The Athletic Office has announced that tickets for the North Carolina basketball game at the Coliseum on December 31 will go on sale on Monday, December 8.

The ticket office in the gymnasium will be open every afternoon during the holidays except on Saturdays and Christmas day. Schreiber and Jones, Bachrach Rasin and Triangle Sporting Goods will also handle tickets.

telegrams, letters and advice on how to keep hitting. Sometimes Joe wouldn't connect safely until his last time at bat. Naturally this served to take its toll on his nerves.

Lou Gehrig was Joe's idea of a great team man as well as a hitter. Commenting on baseball today, Joe is of the opinion that the top hitter in the majors is Ted Williams. Although he believes that Bob Feller is the best pitcher in baseball, it's Mel Harder of the Indians who gives him the roughest time.

Picks Red Sox

Looking forward to the next season, Joe said, "The Yankees are still the champions and the team to beat. However if any team gives us trouble, it will probably be the Boston Red Sox."

DiMaggio expressed the hope that this last operation would clear things up for him. He has undergone several operations in the last year. He believes that Dr. Bennett, the doctor who has performed all the operations, is the man who can really "mend those bones."

After he returns to New York where he will recuperate for a while, Joe plans to drive to Florida in his new Cadillac. He expects to have plenty of time to enjoy the sunshine and enjoy his favorite hobby, —fishing. Nice work, if you can get it.

Brown Splashes To Win In Championship Race

by Jim Norris, Jr.

George Brown, captain of the 'hill and dalers,' "swam" to victory in the sixth annual Mason-Dixon Cross Country Championship, held November 24, at Gallaudet College, Washington, on a rain soaked course.

Brown, before winning this championship, had won four dual meets, losing only to Catholic U. and St. Joe of Philadelphia. The Philadelphians' have one of the best cross-country teams in the East this year.

Nip And Tuck

For the first three miles it was a nip and tuck battle with Brown, Jim Troxel, captain of Hopkins, and Bob Portmess of Hopkins. In the closing half mile Brown took the lead and finished twenty yards ahead of Troxel, with Portmess in third place.

John Paszek, Loyola senior who has been improving steadily, finished in tenth place with Jim Kaufman, Jerry Kimmitt, Larry Atkinson, Ray Lelli, and George Stevens finishing in that order for the Greyhounds.

Team Honors

Hopkins and Bridgewater tied for team honors with 34 points, and Catholic U. was third with 55 points. Fourth place was taken by the Loyola harriers with 72 points. Delaware and Randolph-Macon tied for fifth place and Washington and Gallaudet followed with 94 and 147 respectively.

After the conference run, awards were presented to the first fifteen to place, with two of Coach McElroy's boys, George Brown and John Paszek, taking first and tenth.

Mueller Selects Tankmen; Lacks Experienced Diver

The splash, stroke and kick department, under the watchful eye of Coach Franny Mueller, has finished the preliminary trials held to select the tankmen who will represent the College during the '47-'48 swim season. At this writing, the aquatic squad consists of twenty-five swimmers who are working out daily in the pool.

Since the ability of some of the candidates is known to Coach Mueller, he is devoting considerable time to the possible development of the top prospects among the newcomers.

Clint Bamberger, a holdover from last year's team, has proven once again that he is among the top performers in the breaststroke class. Three other natators from last year's group, Manley Gately, Jimmy Oaster and Jake Fisher will be called upon for the sprint events. Bert Dunn and Jack Blondell have given every indication of living up to the fine performances they gave last year. They will compete in the freestyle-distance swim.

The backstroke work of Tom Maskell and Joe Hauf has merited favorable comment from Mueller. He is also high in his praise for Earl Dugent, Andy McCormick, Jacques Gunning and Frank McCrystle. All are freshmen. Although the crop of freshmen swimmers has produced no experienced diver, it is the opinion of the coach that Guinning may develop into a capable springboard man.

All of the swimmers mentioned above together with the rest of the squad had a workout last week as they engaged the Knights of Columbus team in a practice session at the Casey pool. The first regular meet for the tankmen comes on January 10 when they take on Dickinson College of Pennsylvania at Dickinson.

A meet scheduled for February 4 with Rider College of Trenton, New Jersey, was canceled due to the fact that Rider was unable to obtain pool facilities for the season.

Mueller Leads Bowling League

Gordon Mueller of the class of '47 took the lead in the Alumni Bowling League by hitting a 358 for three games. Edward McGraw is still leading the high scoring for single games competition with 147.

Mueller took the lead from Charles Bitterli and Henry Zerkhusen who each held a previous high of 348.

Class Of '47 Leads

The Class of '47 still leads the league however, having won 22 games with only 5 in the loss column.

Second place goes to the October class of '43 and third to the class of '35, and fourth to the class of '40 and the January '43B.

'Experienced Men Bolster Wrestling Team': Goodman

"This year we undoubtedly will have a better balanced team than last year's squad," said Phil Goodman, who is beginning his second year as coach of the "grunt and groan boys." Goodman realizes that all the other colleges will have good wrestling teams this season, but he has high hopes that his team will have more wins racked up than last season's team accomplished.

In addition to the eight first string grapplers, Goodman expects to carry at least three more in the reserve ranks. "You must bear in mind," he commented, "that in this sport there is a great deal of bodily contact and our men must be in top-notch physical condition for all contests as a result."

Daily Practice

The wrestling candidates have been on the mat every day getting into shape and practicing the finer points of the game. Their first match is scheduled for December 18, when they play host to Washington and Lee University.

According to Goodman, Jack Enoch has shown the most improvement since last year. Enoch was one of the mainstays of the team during the '46-'47 season. "Also," beamed the coach, "I'll have Mus Bower, who went to the finals in the Mason-Dixon tournament last year. This season he should do much better."

Beese And Mueller

"Jeep Mueller will be our heavy man," Goodman concluded, "and Carter Beese will handle the 175 pound class. Everyone is working hard to form a strong team, especially Sam Proctor, our manager, who has been helping the boys out. I hope to produce a much better team this year, but I suspect that our opponents will be better also."

Phil Goodman

Reitz Coaches JV Court Team

Lefty Reitz, who took over B Squad basketball team duties in addition to his varsity work this year, is working the team daily in preparation for their first game. The squad will play their contests in conjunction with the varsity games.

Reitz expects to field a group of about fifteen men, and will use the B Squad as a definite stepping stone to the varsity. It will be composed almost exclusively of underclassmen.

The Athletic Office is still in the process of completing a schedule for the junior players, but Reitz has announced that they will engage in between twenty and twenty-five skirmishes.

Most of these will be played on their home court at Evergreen, but the squad will also travel several times with the varsity. A complete schedule of their games will appear in a later issue of THE GREYHOUND.

Romper Swamp Hopkins, 45-7; Jay Attack Bogs Down In Mud

The Rompers, Loyola's intramural football champs, climaxed a perfect season last week with a 45-7 rout over a bewildered Johns Hopkins intramural team at Evergreen.

A mud-coated gridiron hampered both squads considerably, but Loyola's aerial attack was too much for the Blue Jays, whose only tally came midway in the second half after a long drive and a series of interceptions and completions.

Laroque Scores

Jerry Laroque, garnering 25 points throughout the contest, sent the Rompers into high gear on the third play of the game when he snared Ray Wittlesberger's 30-yard spiral and sprinted into the soggy end zone. After adding the extra-point, Laroque proceeded to make a clever interception of Hopkins' initial pass attempt, and scored again, leaving the startled Blue Jays standing in the mire.

Soon afterwards, with a bombardment of passes by Captain Frank Scrivener, Ray Wittlesberger, and Skinny Simms, the latter connected with teammate Jerry, who raised the count to 19-0.

Finger Hurt

With five minutes of the first half remaining, Vince Bagli grabbed an enemy aerial that set up T. D. number four. This was accomplished by a Scrivener to Bagli completion. Johnny Mohler scored moments later following another interception by Vince Bagli. Sam Phelps received an injured finger on the extra-point attempt and had to leave the game.

Skinny Simms tallied and Johnny Mohler scored the point on passes from Scrivener before the half ended, 39-0. Before the fracas ended, Jerry Laroque wrapped up the 45-7 decision by holding on to one of Scrivener's pay dirt heaves.

'Mural Quintets To Be Grouped In Two Leagues

The intramural basketball season will open soon after the Christmas holidays, according to Franny Mueller, Loyola's intramural mentor.

"Team applications are available now in the gymnasium, and there's no limit to the number of teams entered," he commented a few days ago. Eight players will compose each squad and any student may play.

One of the big plans underway is to get the members of extra-curricular activities and clubs to form their club teams. The Junior Sodality, for instance, has entered a team composed only of members of that organization.

"This way some of the strictly intellectual students will want to come to the gym, play basketball and become interested in intramurals," Mueller surmised.

Thus, there will be two leagues, a club league and an open league, the open league to be made up of students not playing for one of the extracurricular groups.

All competition will take place in the gym. Games will be scheduled before 2:30 p.m. whenever possible. They will be played after 2:30 p.m. only on days that there are varsity contests at night.

Two baskets are to be added at the east end of the gym, thereby forming two courts.

There are eligibility rules which bar any student from all intramural activities who participate in a major sport after Tuesday, December 16.

Basketball

Alumni Lose To Varsity In 42-41 Court Thriller

The Greyhounds opened the basketball season on a winning note last Saturday night by nosing out a star-studded Alumni team, 42-41. Coach Lefty Reitz floored a fast, experienced team which led easily until the last five minutes of the game, when the Alumni quintet rallied in an attempt to squeeze out a victory.

After the opening tap, the varsity jumped into a 4-0 lead when Jim Lacy made a set shot and a pair of foul shots a few minutes later. Barney Goldberg opened the scoring for the grads when he scored after a nice fake and cut. With Goldberg guarding Lacy effectively the Hounds led at the end of the quarter, 11-6.

Barry Shines

In the second quarter Loyola's second team entered the game and played well. Bob Barry made two beautiful shots under the basket and, along with Bill Johnson, played a fine defensive game. Vic and Franny Bock made good shots for the Alumni, but it was the tricky Goldberg who kept the Grads in the game with his clever playmaking. Loyola led at the end of the first half, 23-17.

At the beginning of the second half, the Alumni quickly narrowed the score down to 23-22. Then Jim Lacy sank an underhand shot and Al Barthelme, who led the scoring with 13 points, tallied for the Alumni. With Lacy directing play, the Hounds retained their lead and after a nice set shot by Johnson, led at the end of the quarter, 35-31.

Exciting Finale

As the thrill-packed final quarter started, Barthelme sank a jump shot to bring the score up to 35-33. The two teams battled up and down the floor evenly and then Franny Bock made a one-hander to bring the score to 38-37 with two minutes remaining.

Vince Gallagher scored for Loyola with a set shot, but big Sid Roche promptly sank a sensational underhanded pivot shot to put the Alumni within a single point of the Varsity.

Meinert Clinches Game

Herb Meinert swished a set shot from the side to put Loyola into a 42-39 lead. Then Barney Goldberg brought the crowd to its feet with a beautiful set shot from mid-court. This ended the scoring, as the game ended seconds later with Loyola ahead 42-41.

Bill Johnson was high-scorer for the Varsity with eight points, Lacy had six, and the rest of the scoring was well divided. Everyone on the team saw action.

WMAR To Televis Five Home Games

Television audiences will view at least five of the Loyola home games through the medium of WMAR in Baltimore. This information was released by the Athletic Office after arrangements were completed with that station.

The tele-cameras will transmit the North Carolina game, to be held at the Coliseum on Wednesday, December 31. This is the only definitely arranged broadcast; the others will be announced within a few weeks.

Bower, Scholastic 155-Pound Champion, Strengthens Greyhound Wrestling Team

by Mickey Parr

(This is the sixth in a series of articles on outstanding Loyola athletes.)

When Phil Goodman, Loyola's wrestling coach, sends his musclemen into action this winter, he'll have ample reason for looking hopefully at the 155-pound division.

For the record of Francis (Mus) Bower, who toils for the Greyhounds in this weight class, is indeed of the impressive variety. Mus is just a sophomore at Evergreen, and last season won seven out of his eleven matches. This represented the best outlay of any member of last year's squad.

After a mediocre start, this stocky, 5'8" wrestler hung up a string of six straight decisions, only to lose out in the 1947 Mason-who bested our stalwart, was a teammate of Bower when the two were students at McDonogh School. He must have had some inside dope on Mus!

Mus Bower

Dixon Championship finals. Incidentally, Hopkins' Freddie Smith,

Bower, who was Co-captain with Phil Lohrey a year ago, has greatly improved after his one collegiate season, and has hopes of not only equaling his 1945-46 log, but also for avenging those few setbacks.

On a Greyhound mat team that is studded with experienced men, Mus Bower should still stand out as one of the ablest of Phil Goodman's charges.

Movie-Dance This Evening

Count of Monte Cristo will be the next movie shown at the Mask and Rapier Society's record dance on December 5. Francis Gallagher, chairman of the society's entertainment committee, has stated that he expects approximately five hundred persons to attend the affair.

Following the movie, a dance will be held in the gymnasium. A juke box will provide the top tunes of the day.

Coupled with the film will be a technicolor presentation by the Chesterfield Company called The Making of a Cigarette.

The committee in charge of the dances has also announced that a free evening of entertainment will be supplied to all the students on the evening of December 28. In keeping with the spirit of the season, The Christmas Carol has been chosen as the most appropriate movie for the evening. There will also be another main feature, as yet unannounced, which will also be shown at the Christmas dance.

Chesterfield Company will have a representative of its publicity department to distribute free samples of his company's product to those present.

Fall Quarterly Distributed

Second edition of the post-war Evergreen Quarterly was distributed among the student body late this week. Dr. William McHugh, guest writer for the issue, contributed an article concerning the various theories of the nature and necessities of sleep.

This issue continued the new format and layout plans which were inaugurated in the first issue. With the exception of the guest article, all stories, poems and articles were contributed by the students.

The next issue of the Quarterly will be published in February, it was announced by Mr. G. Edward Herzer, moderator.

New Alumni President Has Impressive Legal Record

by Daniel Mackey

"Prosecutor" and not "persecutor" is the way Assistant States Attorney William J. O'Donnell, recently-elected president of the Alumni Association, describes his job. A member of the Bar for only six years, O'Donnell received his appointment last year, one month after his discharge from service.

At the beginning of the war Mr. O'Donnell enlisted in the Naval Reserve and was appointed to the Intelligence Division until 1945, when he went on terminal leave.

He was called back for a short period in 1946 to serve as defense counsel for the famous McVay (sinking of the Indianapolis) trial, at which Admirals King and Nimitz presided.

Economic Warfare Attorney

Graduating from Loyola in 1937, Mr. O'Donnell worked during his stay at Law School as Law Clerk and Secretary to Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis. He passed his examination for the Bar in March 1941 and the same year became an Attorney with the Economic Warfare Division in Washington, which attempted to out-buy or out-manuever Germany on critical war materials.

The States Attorney considers the Thames Street Bombers incident the most interesting case of his short term in office. The incident centered around the seamen's strike last May. When seamen from one boarding house on Thames Street continued to violate union rules and man ships, a warning and then a bomb was tossed through the window, killing six people.

Prosecuted Bomb Case

A search for the culprits led from Baltimore to New York to Philadelphia, where they were captured. O'Donnell personally returned them to Baltimore and prosecuted the case. All three were convicted of third degree murder.

Mr. O'Donnell has held three previous positions in the Alumni Association, as a member of the Executive Committee in 1940, as second vice-president in 1945, and as first vice-president last year.

Moral: Learn Your Latin

Early last week a student who had been ransacking the card index in the college library was approached by the Librarian and offered assistance in finding what he wanted.

"Look," said the student, who had apparently grown desperate, "I'm trying to write my thesis, and I've just got to find a copy of that reference book called Ibid that I've seen mentioned in footnotes so often. Even the Pratt doesn't have a copy!"

Sodalities Give Orphans' Party

Christmas will come a few days early for the orphans of St. Elizabeth's this year in the form of a party given for them by Baltimore's Sodality Union. Member schools of the Union are Mount St. Agnes, Goucher, Notre Dame, Loyola and Johns Hopkins.

Date of the party will be December 11, with festivities beginning at 7:30 p.m. George Medairy was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the affair at the Union's November 16 meeting.

Tentative entertainment program for the orphans will include two skits, one presented by the Loyola Dramatic Society and the other by Mt. St. Agnes, a magic act by Cyril Keller and a mixed quartet.

Presents for the children are being purchased and wrapped by a committee of girls from Mt. St. Agnes, Notre Dame and Goucher. Entertainment is being arranged by Loyola and Hopkins students. Loyola, Mt. St. Agnes and Notre Dame are furnishing the refreshments.

Loyola Commuters:

Carroll Covers 99 Miles Daily

What some people won't do to attend Loyola! Dave Carroll, a Sophomore Ph. B. student, has traveled the distance around the world in commuting back and forth to Evergreen every day.

Carroll, who lives in Brookland, Washington, D. C., has commuted daily for more than a year and in that time has traveled more than 25,000 miles.

$400 Fare

Finances, too, have set a new record. Dave has spent more than four hundred dollars, or almost the equivalent of a year's tuition, on train and car fare. He estimates that traveling expenses cost him more than half of his monthly veteran allotment.

Another interesting item is that Carroll spends almost as much time traveling as he does attending classes. Although he has twenty-six class hours per week, he finds it necessary to devote another twenty hours to traveling time.

Sleeps On Train

On the train in the morning, Dave confesses that he usually catches up on his slumber although he believes it would be to his advantage to study. However he makes up for lost time by studying on the return trip in the evening.

Carroll is one of about twelve Loyola students who travel over fifty miles enroute to and away from Evergreen daily.
